We're pretty sure that we've run more Hebrew-related Top 5 lists in the past few weeks than any other news outlet in town, and you know what? We wouldn't have it any other way. So with only a lil' bit of further ado, we present to you not one, not two, but three (!) Top 5 lists, all courtesy of Shalom Feivel and Rocky Mountain Jewgrass, who will share their musical stylings - and brunch - with the public this Sunday at Lannie's Clocktower Cabaret (11 a.m., in the basement of the D & F Tower on 16th Street, tickets $20, see lannies.com for more info).

Top 5 things Rocky Mountain Jewgrass will bring to Lannie's

- 1 Bagels
- 2 Lox
- 3 A banjo player
- 4 Many of our relatives
- 5 Extra guitar strings

Top 5 things you need to know about Rocky Mountain Jewgrass

- 1 We sing in three languages (four, if you count babbling).
- 2 Our shows are participatory, but mostly you just listen.
- 3 Jewgrass is a form of bluegrass, but we can't be held responsible for that.
- 4 There are five musicians in our band, and we all play right-handed.
- 5 There will be no intermission to this show so plan accordingly.

Top 5 things you didn't know about Rocky Mountain Jewgrass

- 1 We've never performed in Latvia, The Ivory Coast or Nebraska.
- 2 Our bass player took up the instrument because she wanted to hang out with tall blondes (see photo).
- 3 There are actually weeds called jewgrass - but as far as we know they don't perform our kind of music.
- 4 We are the world's most famous Jewgrass band - and probably the only one.
- 5 Most of our rehearsals take place in a basement rather than a garage.
